

J4 Spanish

After broadening their knowledge about daily routines and healthy habits J4 Spanish students also calculated their carbon footprint, meaning, the impact they have in the environment, through their daily actions. The red color represents actions that are not good for the environment: you have to change. The yellow represents actions that are better for the environment but that still compromise the future generations: you need to change. The green color represents sustainable actions, meaning that they do not compromise the future of the next 7 generations.

And how about you?

How big is your

Carbon footprint?

Come to the JS and find out!
